Nukkad Natak on Violence Against Women including Acid Attack

On the premises of Ambedkar DSEU Shakarpur Campus-I, an impactful Nukkad Natak named 'Dastak' was organised on 10 February 2023 by the Delhi State Legal Authority in partnership with the talented actors of Asmita Theatre Group. The natak, directed by the renowned Arvind Gaur, shed light on the issue of violence against women, including acid attacks, and presented a powerful message on the subject.

The Nukkad Natak delineated various forms of violence against women, such as domestic violence, eve teasing, female foeticide, molestation, coercion, mental abuse, denial of space, and freedom of movement. It expressed how women are often held responsible for their own victimization, and how the onus is always on them to be safe, rather than on men to refrain from committing crimes against them.

The performers boldly questioned the societal norms that allow such violence to persist and urged the audience to take the issue seriously and help the victims find justice. The sound effects and synchronisation of dialogues were so impactful that the audience was left reeling, moved to the core by the seamless and immersive experience of the play. A few girls even came forward to share their personal experiences of abuse, which served as a poignant reminder of the severity of the issue.

The credit for organising that impactful Nukkad Natak goes to Mr. Rohit Sharma, the coordinator of the event. The girls were relieved to witness that the faculty understand the challenges they face and hoped to see more such initiatives in the future, to create a safer world.
